

WonderOps Technical Team

2024 was the year when at WonderOps I tried some new things. I hired people from Egypt, I put together a tech team including creating opportunities for interns, and more! It has been an exciting time. However, within all of the fun, I lost sight of the foundation of my business. Buying and Selling Land.

As a result, I have made the decision to focus my attention more on the fundamentals of the business model I have been doing for years - and become great at the basics once again.

Unfortunately, this means it is time for the technical team at WonderOps to come to a close. The timing seems right since we have two internships concluding their time this month.

Let this not lose sight of the fact that you did good work!

In my view, you did some cool stuff. You worked with AI on real projects. You learned how to operate with little supervision and deliver results. You learned how to make incremental progress and demonstrated results every two weeks. Keep up the good work!

The technical team will continue to exist and operate until September 27, 2024. What can you do for WonderOps until then?

- If you would like for your work to live on with us, it would be great if you can take the time to train one or two people on the team how to use what you have built
- Make sure your code is well annotated, documented and uploaded to github. That way if this work ever gets dusted off in the future, someone can pick up where you left off.
- Make a giant list of all of the things you have accomplished while you were here. When you need to tell people what you have accomplished or about your experience, you will have this list to speak about.

It is my sincerest hope that you have had the opportunity to learn some new things while part of us. I hope that you will take some of your experience here forward with you into your careers as you make lasting impacts.

If anyone wants to meet 1:1 prior to September 27th, I am more than happy to do so.

Best Regards,

Steve
